What are the benefits of subscription?

Nielsen BookData takes book information for all titles (new and backlist) from English-language publishers worldwide, and all 11 official languages in South Africa, aggregating the data to create unique, up-to-date title records which are then disseminated via a range of subscription services to booksellers and libraries in 110 countries.

- Wherever possible or applicable your new and forthcoming title record will contain enriched information, including: descriptions, Tables of Contents, promotional details, book awards, readership levels, BIC subject classifications (Dewey and LC codes) and territorial rights. We have approximately 300 fields available for each record.
- Jacket/cover images - the inclusion of images with a synopsis of the book gives sales a powerful boost, particularly in a highly competitive market.
- Services of a dedicated editor - a named editor who manages your information, ensuring accuracy, consistency, timeliness and completeness of your records, giving your titles the edge when viewed by buyers around the world.
- We collect data for English-language books (and other published media) from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and more than 70 countries worldwide. We also work with data partners in North America to ensure comprehensive coverage on our products and services.
